Mintlaw Primary Newsletter

14th September 2017

Dear Parents/Carers

As you know, Mintlaw primary School is a Rights Respecting School. As such we try to learn together about the rights of all people according to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child.

Our Rights Respecting School group would like to have a 'Celebrating Diversity Day' at our school again. This will be happening on the 29th September. Our focus will be celebrating the fact that we are all different and looking at ways in which we can respect these differences.

We would really appreciate it if our parents, grandparents or carers could get involved with us on this day. If you have something you can contribute to this day, perhaps you could speak with one of the classes about a different culture, religion, a condition that you or a member of your family lives with, please contact Cheryl Robertson, Majella Morrison or Jill Cook who are helping the children to coordinate the day.

The children in our Rights Respecting group will be doing a presentation for the school at our assembly on that day.

We would also like to have a non-uniform day on that day, which will help us to celebrate our differences in a visual way.

Yours sincerely

The Rights Respecting School Group
